

On October 22, we issued a solicitation of interest to gauge whether any organizations regionally or nationally would be interested in joining us in a public-private partnership. By the early December deadline, we received several proposals but decided that none met all of our goals as outlined in our solicitation of interest.

Although we did not accept the specific proposals, we are in the process of deciding whether it makes sense to discuss with some of the respondents in an effort to develop new proposals that would meet our goals. Any such discussions will take some time with internal and external stakeholders, therefore any rumors of imminent partnerships are inaccurate. UConn Health is committed to conducting a thoughtful and transparent process as we seek the best path forward.
